AI & Machine Learning

AI & Machine Learning:

Have you ever wondered how a computer can learn to recognise your voice or face, or how it can learn what films you'd like to watch? In fact, the processes involved are easier to understand than you might think.

Machine learning algorithms are programs that tell a computer HOW to learn to solve a problem. Using these algorithms, computers can figure out what to learn in order to solve a problem, given lots and lots of examples. They can detect patterns in data, and make decisions or predictions on the basis of this.

ACTING
Generating and controlling actions

ASSESSING
